Of Pennsylvania Raising Campaign Fund for Delegation.

Harrisburg, February 19.—A campaign fund of $3,000 for the election of a Bryan delegation from Pennsylvania to the Democratic National Convention at Denver was raised at a meeting here today of the executive committee of the Bryan Democratic League of Pennsylvania. The committee also decided to put candidates for national delegates in every one of the thirty-two Congressional districts of the state and to organize auxiliary leagues to help these candidates. Mrs. Mary Kegg

A daughter of Henry and Sophia Mower, she was born at Rainsburg on December 18, 1825, and was married to Levi Kegg. She was a consistent member of the Reformed church for 60 years. All her life, with the exception of one year, was spent in her native town. Two children survive: B. T. Kegg of Salem, O., and Clara, wife of L. L. Imler of Osterburg; ten grandchildren also survive. The body was taken to the Brick church in Friend's Cove, where funeral services were held at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, conducted by Rev. Charles E. Rupp.

Mrs. Fannie Larue

The body of Mrs. Fannie Larue, who died at her home in Meyersdale of typhoid fever on Monday, February 17, was brought to this place on the 4:45 o'clock train Tuesday afternoon and laid to rest in the cemetery. She was a daughter of the late Philip Leary of this place and was aged about 35 years. Her husband and two small children survive.

George Washington

In all things a just and noble man.

In the production of Washington, it does really appear as if Nature was endeavoring to improve upon herself, and that all the virtues of the ancient world were but so many studies preparatory to the patriot of the new. Individual instances, no doubt, there were, splendid exemplifications of some singular qualification. Caesar was merciful, Scipio was temperate, Hannibal was patient; but it was reserved for Washington to blend them all in one, and, like the lovely masterpiece of the Grecian artist, to exhibit, in one glow of associated beauty, the pride of every model, and the perfection of every master.—Charles Phillips.

FRUIT GROWERS' MEETING

Secretary Lee Urges Full Attendance—Value of Spraying.

The monthly meeting of the Fruit Growers' Association will be held in the court house at 2 p. m. Saturday, February 23. We have not had a meeting since our convention in December because members did not turn out. Your business welfare depends upon your personal attention, and this association's success depends upon the earnestness of individual members. Those fruit growers who belong to the association but do not attend the meetings are paying dear for their privilege in cash.

The topic, "How to dispose of the by-products or second-grade apples by canning, evaporation, or making into jelly, vinegar and apple butter," is very important because thousands of poor-grade and wind-fall apples go to waste annually. A canning factory in Adams county used over 40,000 bushels, 700 bushels a day, this season an evaporator consumed 400 bushels per day and a number of apple butter plants had a profitable season. Apple cider made into vinegar, when made properly, makes an important adjunct to a cider mill.

Bedford county cannot be excelled anywhere in the world for the growing of fine apples generally. It is true that "sky-favored" localities in Virginia, Washington and Oregon can grow Albemarle pippins better, perhaps than we can; but generally speaking, we have nothing to fear from any section provided we give our orchards the same care that they give theirs.

We cannot expect to grow apples to compete with theirs unless we apply up-to-date methods. They cannot get better color, flavor or quality in their apples than we can, providing we take the same precautions they do. In Washington and Oregon the Shippers' Union handle the fruit when grown and allow nothing but the first-class apples to be shipped, each box being stamped with the grower's name. Before the union was formed apples sold for 60c a box; now sell for from $2.50 to $4 per box. They have a reputation and maintain it. If our apples were put into 50 pound boxes as carefully as theirs we could receive the same for them. We must organize to do so.

Bedford county fruit growers cannot expect to raise first-class fruit unless they spray, prune, cultivate and fertilize annually. If our fruit were graded as close as the Washington and Oregon people grade theirs 75 per cent. at least would be thrown back as second grade. The codling moth or the worm making the wormy apples can be controlled by two sprays; the first with two pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water, just after the blossoms fall, the second application being made ten days later. If spraying is not done the highest prices cannot be expected because when placed in competition with sprayed fruit it will not stand the test.

On Wednesday, February 12, at the home of the bride near Imler, Harry Brant of New Enterprise and Miss Margaret E. Imler were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. H. Diehl of St. Clairsville.

NEW YORK LETTER

Number One Thousand Six Hundred and Three.

ARTIFICIAL JEWEL MAKING.

Corporate Union of Churches—The Family of the Aborigines—Purchasing a Name, Not a Man.

New York, February 18.—There is much said of late about the manufacture of artificial diamonds, rubies, sapphires, emeralds, and other precious stones. So much that I read seemed to point to the probability that they could be scientifically made, that I find the statements of experts in judging the values of gems quite astonishing; they say that notwithstanding all the time and money spent in their manufacture and sale, there are absolutely "no perfect indications and that although many are both made and sold they do not in the least effect either the sale or the price of the genuine stones." When a leader of fashion in Paris says that forty or fifty thousand dollars a year is the minimum amount upon which she can be "well dressed," what may one consider would be the "respectable" amount to expend in gems in order to make them fit the rest of her costume? "No lady," she says, "will wear sham jewelry any more than imitation laces," but methinks it is a pitiable thing when to be a lady depends upon the value of what one can buy to hang upon the outside of the temple, rather than the quality of the soul which inhabits it.

One man in London had confidence enough in Henry Lemoine's claim of a formula by which he could manufacture diamonds to advance three hundred fifty thousand dollars for the secret, which was deposited in a London Safe Deposit and not to be opened until after Lemoine's death. At present Lemoine has the money and Sir Julius Wernher the locked-up formula. There is an old adage about a fool and his money but I think Sir Lemoine cannot soon show some of his manufactured stones of value that Sir Julius can recover what can be found of the amount. Swindlers make money fly, so Sir Julius had better hurry.

In spite of all this I certainly like to think that the world is growing better. How peculiar it is that we hear so much more about the wickedness of it is so much more startling than its goodness that in reporting news it takes the lead. I am no exception to this rule, for I find that in selecting news almost unintentionally the sensational has the first attraction.

That there is a very strong movement among the Protestant Episcopal churches of America, and the Church of England also, towards a corporate union with the Church of Rome, there is no possible doubt. Archbishop Ryan says this movement towards Roman Catholicism has been going on for some time and that doubtless many Episcopalians will go into the Catholic church before a corporate union is finally effected. The archbishop also said, "In the time of Cardinal Manning, before he became a Catholic, there was a movement in England when a number of Clergymen, Manning among them, declared that if the supreme power of the English church—the Queen and the Privy Council—should declare that one need not believe in baptismal regeneration and yet could continue in the ministry of the Established Church of England, they would withdraw from the latter body. And they did so. Many among them left the Established Church, Cardinal Manning being one, and joined the Catholic church." The clergy of the Episcopal church will have to be reordained before they can be received into the Roman Catholic church. The clergy of the Greek church were recognized as priests, and taken in after some concessions regarding non-essentials, but the terms and concessions necessary for admitting the Anglicans and American Episcopalians will have to be arranged "by agreement with the Pope."

The aborigines had a no less sensational manner of establishing a family than the more modern inhabitants of this country. In those days when a "brave" desired that he was ready to establish a home for himself the most important step was to select the squaw he wished to mate with, for the woman even then seems to have been the most important item towards making the house a home. It was only a "limited" matter of "natural selection"—as it was but for our side to decide, the woman having no voice in the matter; the brave knocked her down and carried her to his tent and that constituted

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

Address Before Maj. William Watson Post G. A. R. by

DR. AMERICUS ENFIELD

Ninety and nine years ago there was born in a cabin in the wilds of Kentucky a man whose name has become a household word to all civilized nations. Among the many names that adorn the bright pages of American history, written and yet to be written, will stand the name of Abraham Lincoln because he was good, just, kind and honest. The mention of his name today sends a sympathetic and patriotic thrill through the hearts of all true American citizens because he stood for the freedom and equality of man and the Union one and inseparable.

Lincoln was the first of our martyred Presidents and on the never-fading scroll of American marble and granite will be chiseled the names of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley. These three great names, with that of Washington, will ever live and shine with undimmed brightness and unparalleled splendor. Lincoln stands side by side with Moses of old, the great law giver of Israel; Garfield, the warrior, with Joshua, and McKinley with old King David, the statesman, the beloved son of Jesse, and Washington with John, the teacher and exhorter against false doctrine.

My comrades and veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, the recall of Lincoln's name fills our hearts with sweet, yet sad memories. Gratitude of the soldier is both a virtue and a religion, and when we mention the name of one who lived and died that liberty should live and that our government should not perish from the earth, it becomes a religious duty as well as an act of gratitude to honor his name and his deeds. Lincoln was a friend of man, and therefore a friend of God. He gave man more liberty, more freedom, more joy. His pen and his heart moved together for the good of mankind. In his veins flowed no aristocratic blood. Like Garfield and McKinley he rose from the common people. He was not so fortunate as his successors. He had no collegiate education. Upon his head was not poured the divine blessings of parental kindness, care and authority. He had barely a year's schooling, all told, in the crude education of his time, but he had wisdom and was a thinker—a student of nature and nature's God.

His great love of his fellowmen made him the mainstay of Liberty, Union and Freedom.

Poverty was his brother, necessity his master, and God his guide. He had few books but an abundance of brain. No wealth but plenty of courage. No polish but politeness. No sophistry but truth. No hypocrisy, for he knew not how to be false. With matchless courage he espoused the cause of the weak against the strong. Then like now the plutocracy and the would-be nobility stood in the way of right, justice and progress. He found venality on the bench, tyranny in the acts of legislation and hypocrisy in the pulpit. Now viewed in the light of this century, with the scroll of the nineteenth rolled together, we read the inscriptions on the monuments over the graves where sleep our warriors, patriots and statesmen, in calm repose, and there is one whose wisdom and humanity towers above them all. Examine his life now when the hatred and animosities of the strife have been buried in the graves

STRAIN TOO GREAT

Hundreds of Bedford Readers Find Daily Toil a Burden.

The hustle and worry of business men, the hard work and stooping of workmen, the woman's household cares, are too great a strain on the kidneys.

Backache, headache, sideache, kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.

A Bedford citizen tells you how to cure them all.

Mrs. Luther Naus, living on E. Pitt St., Bedford, Pa., says: "Mr. Naus is forced to do a great deal of bending in his work and I think that this was the cause of his kidney complaint. For some time he was troubled with a pain in his back and a soreness across his kidneys. The kidneys themselves were not acting properly and he suffered severely from dizzy spells and headaches. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Irvine's Drug Store, and he had only used them a short time when he felt much better in every way. His strength has returned and the pain in his back have disappeared. He is very thankful for the benefits derived."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N.Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. Feb. 21-24.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headaches, pain or distressing "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, and "rising" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet you are a torpid liver, or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to it until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

of the actors of the bloody scenes, and his figure is colossal. Centuries yet unnumbered will feel his heart beats, and breathe his patriotic inspirations, our children's children will delight to read his speech at Gettysburg. While we are yet in this veil of tears his mortal spirit seems to speak to us from the shores of immortality. We are proud of him for his goodness, his greatness, his beneficence to mankind. Without Lincoln America would only be a dream, and our boasted freedom a mockery among nations. Compare him with some of the great men of other nations. Napoleon, the great master of war, lived to see the recoil of the old guard and fade from his sight and his grasp the bright visions of his glory and the mastery of the world. Upon his iron front the storms of fiercest battle dashed, swarthy Mameluke and fur-clad Russian, the trained infantry of Prussia, and the dashing Austrian Hussars thundered in furious torrents and were beaten back and routed like the ocean waves by the rock-bound coast.

He met in the arena of battle the banded nations of continental Europe, but at last the bravery of his men could no longer withstand these demigods of battle, and his conquests, glory and ambition perished from the earth, and with him in the conflict went down liberty, equality and human rights, and it took another great war to establish civil and religious liberty in his beloved France.

When Lincoln closed the conflict, we had a united country, new birth of freedom, and a government of the people, by the people and for the people, that will never perish from the earth. He gave to the world the first great argument against slavery: "A house divided against itself cannot stand. We cannot endure half slave and half free. I do not expect the Union to be dissolved. I do not expect to see the house divided and fall, but I do expect it will cease to be divided. It will become all one thing or all the other. For on this continent our fathers brought forth a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

These noble, these patriotic, these God-like words aroused our fathers like a trumpet's blast. His utterances were filled with argument, persuasion, reason, logic.

In my humble judgment Lincoln wrote the purest and best English of any man in his time and generation. If we examine the history and orations of the Greeks from Pericles and Socrates to Demosthenes and all their far-seeing statesmen, we fall to find the sound doctrines proclaimed to the world by Lincoln. Rome, which was built on the seven hills beside the Tiber, was but a corrupt oligarchy, and history, with all her volumes vast, bath but one page for her. Where among the statesmen and warriors do we find such words as these: "I know that the Lord is always on the side of right. Come what will I will keep my faith with friend and foe. I have not willingly planted a thorn in any man's bosom. I authorize no bargain for the Presidency and will be bound by none. All my life I have been a temperance man and I am too old to change now. With malice toward none, with charity for all, with fairness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work begun, bind up the nation's wounds, care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations. Gold is good in its place, but living, brave and patriotic men are better than gold. All that I am, all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother. Stand with anybody who stands right, stand with him while he is right and part with him when he goes wrong."

No men living are more worthy to be trusted than those who toil up from honesty, none less inclined to take or touch aught which they have not honestly earned. This wise saying is very applicable to the men and times of this generation. He was an epic, an orator, a statesman, an historian, a general, and always with his army. During all the days of the dark scenes of the war of the Rebellion he never faltered for a moment. He consecrated his life, his heart and his work for the cause of the Union. He was with the army by day and by night. He shared our defeats, our victories, our glory. The army to him was a cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night. He led the army to victory, to honor, to glory.

He lived in the days which tried men's souls. He stood by Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and Hancock until the final victory at Appomattox, until the stars and stripes again floated from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Lakes to the Gulf, over a people made free, a country united and a government consecrated to the happiness of mankind. We can thank God for such men as Lincoln, Jefferson, Washington and Roosevelt. These men with kindred spirits planted a free government on the largest and most liberal scale in all history. Today we stand as a unit, the South as well as the North, a continent redeemed from the tyrants of Europe and made free and peaceful by the shedding of blood, from Bunker Hill to Appomattox. It is the duty of the rising generation to see that the great blessing secured by the shedding of kindred blood shall be perpetuated.

On the 12th day of February, 1909, this nation will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birth in the State of Kentucky. On that day the Lincoln Farm Association will dedicate his birthplace farm, museum and monument to the American people. The principal address will be delivered by President Roosevelt, and the old soldiers of the North and South will be there to take part in their dedication. Then the soil which cradled this man of tender years and the air which fed the heart that suffered for four years for a distracted people and not for a single section will be made sacred. Then the dark cloud will have finally passed, the truth of history will be confirmed and his spotless life will shine with greater beauty and cleanness. We can already see back of the dark clouds through which this great man led a divided people, feel his love, hear his kind words, and realize his wise counsel in times of our greatest danger. To the plain people he so dearly loved will be trusted the care of this farm, museum, monument and park.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,

Who never to himself hath said, This is my own, my native land."

He passed to an untimely grave by the hand of an assassin, but not until he had lived to see the rebellion crushed and the Union saved. Let us make green and bright the cold, heavy acres where this modern Moses was born. He belongs to the United States. No monarchy could have ever given birth to such a wise and noble man.

"Oh, friend forever dear, Remembrance will ever hail with her warmest tear,

Drooping, the nation bends over your urn,

To us your life will never return."

Therefore sacred be the trust committed to our care. Ever hopeful, ever bright the visions of coming

Does Not Color Hair

Ayer's Hair Vigor, as now made from our new improved formula, does not stain or color the hair even to the slightest degree. Gray hair, white hair, blonde hair is not made a shade darker. But it certainly does stop falling hair. No question about that.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

Indeed, we believe it will stop every case of falling hair unless there is some very unusual complication, something greatly affecting the general health. Then you should consult your physician. Also ask him about the new Ayer's Hair Vigor. —Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.—

Rheumatism Cannot Be Cured Unless Uric-O Is Used

Sudden Deaths, Heart Failure and Paralysis Are Caused by Poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acids.

The Rheumatic person is skeptical regarding the claims of almost any remedy advertised as a cure for Rheumatism and one can scarcely blame him for being so. All the plasters and liniments combined never actually cured a case of Rheumatism. They may relieve it in one quarter, but it is sure to break out somewhere else. The only true way to cure Rheumatism is to drive it from the system, for as long as the Uric and Rheumatic Acid remains in the blood, one is never entirely free from the trouble. This is where the value of Uric-O as a permanent cure for Rheumatism comes in. It seeks out the Rheumatic poison in the blood, muscles and kidneys, renders it inert and harmless and drives it out of the system. That is why Uric-O is such an admirable and effective cure for Rheumatism.

The chief reason that Uric-O is such a wonderful cure for Rheumatism is, that it is designed and prepared to cure Rheumatism and Rheumatism only. It is composed of perfect antidotes for the rheumatic acid poison in the system. That is the secret of its wonderful success. Rheumatism simply cannot exist in a person's system if Uric-O is used.

Uric-O is sold by druggists at 75c and $1.00 the bottle, but if you still feel skeptical about its efficacy you can test it free of charge by cutting out this advertisement and sending same, together with your name and address, also the name of your druggist, to The Smith Drug Company, 481 Smith Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y., and they will send you a sample bottle free. To persons who write and say they have never used Uric-O, and want to test it thoroughly, and will agree to take it systematically according to directions, they frequently give a regular 75c bottle free.

Uric-O is sold and personally recommended in Bedford by F. W. Jordan. Feb 14-24.

ages. At this present moment let us think of him. Let us bend heart to heart. Let us be honest. Let us be just. Let us remember.

Matchless chieftain, who can describe him! He stood as the abridgment of the nineteenth century. His deeds will live forever. His name and his fame will never wither while liberty endures. We cannot exalt him, he has exalted himself. His star stands out in the great galaxy of heaven's firmament. Like a mighty rock in mid-ocean the winds may come, the waves may dash, but it stands. My comrades, will you honor his memory? He honored us. Our country was perishing, the Republic was being eclipsed, the reign of freedom had about reached its end. "Then came the hour, then came the man." The war was inevitable, the peaceful conference of men could no longer prevail. The omnipotent hand set forth a man to lead our army to victory, to union, to peace. He died an uncrowned king of a free people. Well may we here quote the prophetic words of Webster: "Lincoln did not have to look upon a union dissevered, but rather on the stars and stripes full high advanced with their brightness streaming in all their original luster, with not a stripe erased or polluted, not a star obscured, with freedom emblazoned on its ample folds as it floated over land and sea. Liberty and union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

The end came at last by the breaking down of the Rebellion. The long storm, so full of blood, so full of gloom, so full of doubts, so fratricidal, so dark, to be followed by peace, light, hope, sunshine. Human tongue and human pen can never tell what he endured—what he suffered. The message comes: "Lincoln has been assassinated." I was in Washington awaiting orders to rejoin my regiment to be mustered out. We see the army bowed in grief. We see a country in the shadow of its sorrow. After the conflict was over, and the roar of battle had hushed he serenely and calmly met death and God. His mighty arm sustained him and preserved him through all his trials. This same omnipotent hand, without whose blessing we can do nothing, has blessed our country and preserved the land we helped to save.

I will not lift the veil of the bloody past, I will not open the gaping wounds or the horrors of that Civil War, but with the poet trust that "No more shall the war-cry sever, Or the winding rivers be red; They banish our anger for ever, When they laurel the graves of our dead."

Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day: Love and tears for the Blue; Tears and love, for the Gray."

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR LA GRIPPE

La grippe coughs are dangerous as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs so that no serious results need be feared. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

IMMIGRATION AND INDUSTRIES

More Railroads and Good Wagon Roads Needed in the West.

As manager of private corporations the western man is a howling success, while in the practical management of public corporations he is quite as apt to score a flat failure. The difficulty is owing, not to a lack of personal ability, but to the application of a political system to business affairs. There is no legal machinery for the handling of the greatest of all public business—the interests of the general community. A live western town has advertised for a man to act as secretary of their chamber of commerce, and in the ad they state that he must be peculiarly adapted to this work; to a high-grade, active, well-informed man, a liberal salary will be paid. There are more than one hundred towns in the west that could use the same ad to advantage.

Every town or city with more than one thousand population needs a business men's association; every community with five thousand population should have an association with a professional secretary. At present, however, there are no professional secretaries. It might prove practical for the universities and business colleges to install a course in industrial and commercial education—a course that would prepare young men to take the positions demanding expert knowledge. The field is not limited to business men's organizations; every railroad system is looking for men to take charge of industrial and immigration departments.

At least one-half of the large and small cities west of the Mississippi are suffering for the lack of just this kind of trained talent. Every community is interested in securing immigration for the unoccupied land within its trade circle and in securing industries to utilize its raw material; these are things of vital importance but the municipal authorities cannot take them in hand. For this purpose many commercial clubs and chambers of commerce have been organized. Every family brought into the territory, every farm improved, every irrigating ditch dug, every mine opened, and every institution located, be it a creamery or a saw mill, the raising of hops or hogs, adds just that much to the business resources of the community. One prosperous family on a new farm is worth more to a town or railroad than a trainload of tourists traveling over the country, and a factory employing twenty-five men and using the raw material in the vicinity is a growing asset—a continuous revenue producer. Many little cities in the west, located on streams where there is water-power, have manufacturing sites to sell. So also with towns that have several lines of railroad, or have access to cheap coal. Labor is one of the prime factors in every problem of development and the community that can supply intelligent and contented labor has an asset of great value.

The first business of a western town is to increase its population; a land without people is a wilderness. Last year a certain western state appropriated twenty thousand dollars for advertising purposes, with a view to attracting immigration and industries to its unoccupied territory, and it spent the entire amount among local papers of the state. A merchant who confined his advertisements to his own employees would not last long in business. The successful advertiser must observe certain principles.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

REMOVE THE CAUSE

How to Remove Much of the Suffering in Bedford.

The only way to cure the attacks of indigestion that are so common in Bedford is by using Mi-o-na stomach tablets. They remove the cause of indigestion, strengthen the muscles of the stomach and bowels, and restore the whole digestive system to health and strength.

When the stomach is weak there is indigestion, flatulence, dizziness, headaches, sleeplessness and many other disagreeable symptoms. The only remedy that can be relied upon absolutely to cure this condition is Mi-o-na, for it removes the cause and restores health so that all food is easily digested without pain or suffering.

F. W. Jordan sells Mi-o-na under an absolute guarantee to refund the money unless it cures. Try a 50-cent box and see how much real good it does in strengthening the digestion. Feb. 14-24.

ples, he must know just what he has to sell and get it before those who wish to buy; with the municipal advertiser there is usually a demand for his wares. Men are looking for opportunities to better their condition and they will read eagerly anything about new countries and undeveloped resources. Any municipality might take pattern from the methods employed to exploit California throughout the east.

Los Angeles has a permanent exhibit, the value of which is upwards of $100,000. No other agency has done so much to bring men and money to California. The homeseeker and visitor believe what they see. Ashland has a permanent exhibit at the depot that speaks well for Southern Oregon. The Chamber of Commerce of Stockton, Cal., has a permanent exhibit that is widely known; it is interesting, attractive, and instructive. It is appreciated the more by being in strong contrast to the secretary of this body. There are towns, however, in Nevada and Montana, in which a permanent exhibit would be embarrassing. To the home seeker and business seeker, the Chamber of Commerce of Aberdeen, Wash., is one of the most helpful in the west. These organizations, like all other important enterprises, are a one-man business and they are successful if that one man knows his business. He should know thoroughly the resources of his immediate vicinity and be able intelligently and honestly to exploit them, and should be capable of meeting men of large affairs on their own ground.

Does it pay to advertise? The prosperity of the cities and towns that have gone into the matter in an intelligent business way, that have conducted their advertising campaigns as a merchant would his own, is sufficient answer to the question.

What the west needs, however, more, much more, than exploiting and booming is good wagon roads and more railroads. The automobile is not only demanding better wagon roads, but it is furnishing much better transportation facilities to the far west. Nevada has been aided greatly by the automobile, even among the sage-brush. On one stage-line eighty miles long, a Pope-Toledo car made one round trip of 160 miles each day for four months, carrying eight persons and 500 pounds of baggage. Fernando Nelson's Columbia car, carrying four persons, covered the five hundred and four miles between San Francisco and Los Angeles in the surprising time of eighteen hours and thirteen minutes. This trip not only broke all previous records over this route but it broke the state law governing the operation of motor vehicles every moment of its journey, it endangered the lives of its occupants and of people along the road, and it accomplished no really good purpose.

A. Decker.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Air a Cold Cure

Take a long, deep breath as soon as you go out of doors. Then hold it as long as you possibly can. Repeat it several times as you walk along. You will be surprised the way it will make your blood circulate. Hence a sure preventive, also cure, if faithfully tried, as a cold can be summed up in one word "stagnation."

Keeping Open House

Everybody is welcome when we feel good; and we feel that way only when our digestive organs are working properly. Dr. King's New Life Pills regulate the action of stomach, liver and bowels so perfectly one can't help feeling good when he uses these pills. 25c at all drug stores.

The Call

Oh, the wanderlust is calling,
Calling over hill and dale
To the workers in the city,
Hollow-eyed and hunger pale,
Who may never hear the breezes
Whispering across the lea
And may never know the beauty
Of a golden-tinted sea.

Oh, it's calling to the toilers,
Fighting hard for daily bread,
With an empty heart and cheerless,
Hopefulness forever sped;
Those who are the spawn and bustle,
Brawn and muscle of the strife,
Who are driven to the galleys
And are galley slaves for life.

Oh, the wanderlust is calling,
Calling little babies, too,
Shut up tight in smoky buildings
When the sky is fair and blue.
And the flower fields are pining
For a touch from baby hands,
With a longing never uttered,
That no mortal understands.

Oh, if we could give an answer
To the call we hear today,
It would be a joyful "Coming!"—
God! at last to break away
From the shackles still confining
And the never-ending fight
And to live among the roses
Till this soul has taken flight!

Care of Patent Leather

Many people are troubled with patent leather shoes cracking the first time they are worn. They should be polished with a soft woolen cloth, with a little leaf lard on it. Rub until the leather looks glossy. Be careful to keep in a warm, dry place. Dampness will always spoil patent leather.

THE Princess Virginia

By C. N. and A. M. WILLIAMSON, Authors of "The Lightning Conductor," "Rosemary in Search of a Father," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

Through the gate of dreams lies the fair land of romance into which you would travel, finding welcome relief from the daily grind. Now you are invited to accompany the Princess Virginia, who determines that the royal personage who would honor her with his hand must fall in love with her and woo her as any other man would a woman. Therefore she travels incognito in his realm, meeting adventures strange and full of excitement. You will learn with pardonable pride that the American blood in her veins gives her an independence unheard of in the presence of kings, but most of all you will want to know how she succeeds in her bold undertaking. That you will enjoy every minute of the reading is assured by the verdict of thousands who declare "The Princess Virginia" to be a most delightful story.

CHAPTER ONE

"O," said the princess; "no, I'm dashed if I do."
"My darling child," exclaimed the grand duchess, "you're impossible. If any one should hear you!"

"It's he who's impossible," the princess amended. "I'm just trying to show you."

"Or to shock me. You are so like your grandmother."

"That's the best compliment any one can give me, which is lucky, as it's given so often," laughed the princess. "Dear, adorable Virginia!" She cuddled into the pink hollow of her hand the pearl framed ivory miniature of a beautiful, smiling girl which always hung from a thin gold chain around her neck. "They shouldn't have named me after you, should they, if they hadn't wanted me to be like you?"

"It was partly a question of money, dear," sighed the grand duchess. "If my mother hadn't left a legacy to my first daughter only on consideration that her own extremely American name of Virginia should be perpetuated."

"It was a delicious way of being patriotic. I'm glad she did it. I love being the only royal princess with American blood in my veins and an American name on my handkerchiefs. Do you believe for an instant that if Grandmother Virginia were alive she would let Granddaughter Virginia marry Prince Henri de Touraine?"

"I don't see why not," said the grand duchess. "She wasn't too patriotic to marry an English duke and startle London as the first American duchess. Heavens, the things she used to do if one could believe half the wild stories my father's sister told me in warning! And as for my father, though a most charming man, of course he could not—or have been called precisely estimable, while Prince Henri certainly is, and an exceedingly good match even for you—in present circumstances."

"Call him a match if you like, mother. He's undoubtedly a stick. But, no; he's not a match for me. There's only one on earth." And Virginia's eyes were lifted to the sky as if, instead of existing on earth, the person in her thoughts were placed as high as the sun that shone above her.

"I should have preferred an Englishman for you," said the grand duchess, "if only there were one of suitable rank free to—"

"I'm not thinking of an Englishman," murmured her daughter.

"If only you would think of poor Henri!"

"Never of him. You know, I said I would be dash!"

"Don't repeat it! Oh, when you look at me in that way, how like you are to your grandmother's portrait at home—the one in white, painted just before her marriage! One might have known you would be extraordinary. That sort of thing invariably skips over a generation."

The grand duchess laid down the theory as a law, and whether or no she were right, it was at least sure that she had inherited nothing of the first Virginia's daring originality—some of her radiant mother's beauty perhaps, watered down to gentle prettiness, for the hereditary Grand Duchess of Baumburg-Drippe at fifty-one was still a daintily attractive woman, a middle aged Dresden china lady, with a perfect complexion preserved by an almost perfect temper, surprised eyebrows, kindly dimples and a conventional upper lip.

She was not by birth "hereditary." Her lord and (very much) her master had been that and had selected her to help him reign over the hereditary grand duchy of Baumburg-Drippe, not only because her father was an English duke with royal Stuart blood in his veins, but because her Virginian mother had brought much gold to the Northmoreland exchequer. Afterward he had freely spent such portion of that gold as had come to his coffers in trying to keep his little estates intact. But now it was all gone, and long ago he had died of grief and bitter disappointment. The hereditary grand duchy of Baumburg-Drippe was ruled by a cousinly understudy of the German Emperor William II; the one son of the marriage had been adopted as heir to his crown by the childless king of Hungary; the handsome and lamentably extravagant old Duke of Northmoreland was dead; his title and vast estates had passed to a distant and disagreeable relative, and the widowed grand duchess, with her one fair daughter, had lived for years in a pretty old house with a high walled garden at Hampton Court, lent by the generosity of the king and queen of England.

For a long moment the Dresden china lady thought in silence and some thing of sadness. Then she roused herself again and asked the one and only royal princess with an American name what, in the way of a match, she really expected.

"What do I expect?" echoed Virginia. "Why, I wish for the moon—no, I mean the sun. But I don't expect to get it."

"Is that a way of saying you never intend to marry?"

"I'm afraid it amounts to that," admitted Virginia. "Since there is only one man in the world I would have for my husband."

"My dearest! A man you have let yourself learn to care for, a man beneath you? How terrible! But you see no one. I—"

"I've never seen this man. And—I'm not 'in love' with him. That would be too foolish, because, instead of being beneath, he's far, far above me."

"Virginia, of whom can you be talking? Or is this another joke?"

Virginia blushed a little and, instead of answering her mother's look of helpless appeal, stared at the row of tall hollyhocks that blazed along the ivy hidden garden wall. She did not speak for an instant, and then she said, with the dainty shyness of a child pinned to a statement by uncomprehending elders: "It isn't a joke. Nonsense, maybe, yet not a joke. I've always thought of him—for so many years I've forgotten when it first began. He was so great, so—everything that appeals to me. How could I help thinking about him and putting him on a pedestal? I—there's no idea of marriage in my mind, of course, only—there's no other man possible after all the thoughts I've given him—no other man in the world."

"My dear, you must tell me his name."

"What! When I've described him—almost—do you still need to hear his name? Well, then, I—I'm not ashamed to tell. It's Leopold."

"Leopold. You're talking of the emperor of Rhaetia."

"As if it could have been any one else."

"And you have thought of him, you've cherished him, for years as an ideal! Why, you never spoke of him particularly before."

"That's because you never seriously wanted me to take a husband until this prim, dull French Henri proposed himself. My thoughts were my own. I wouldn't have told you only—you see why."

"Of course, my precious child. How extremely interesting and—romantic!" Again the grand duchess lapsed into silence, yet her expression did not suggest a stricken mind. She merely appeared astonished, with an astonishment that might turn into an emotion more agreeable.

Meanwhile it was left for Virginia to look vexed—vexed with herself. She wished that she had not betrayed her poor little foolish secret—so shadowy a secret that it was hardly worthy of the name. Yet it had been precious—precious since childhood, precious as the immediate jewel of her soul because it had been the jewel of her soul, and no one else had dreamed of its existence. Now she had shown it to other eyes, almost flaunted it. Never again could it be a joy to her.

In the little room, half study, half boudoir, which was her own there was a desk, locked in her absence, where souvenirs of the young emperor of Rhaetia had been accumulating for years. There were photographs which Virginia had contrived to buy secretly—portraits of Leopold from an early age up to the present, when he was shown as a tall, dark, cold eyed, warm lipped, firm chinny young man of thirty. There were paragraphs cut from newspapers telling of his genius as a soldier, his prowess as a mountaineer and hunter of big game, with dramatic anecdotes of his haughty courage in time of danger, his impulsive charities, his well thought out schemes for the welfare of his subjects in every walk of life.

There were black and white copies of bold, clever pictures he had painted. There was martial music composed by him and plaintive folk songs adapted by him, which Virginia had tried softly to herself on her little piano when Tells How Any One Can Prepare Simple Home-Made Mixture, Said to Overcome Rheumatism.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and tortuous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

nobody was near. There were reports of speeches made by him since his accession to the throne, accounts of improvements in guns and an invention of a new explosive. There was a somewhat crude yet witty play which he had written and numerous other records of the accomplishments and achievements and even eccentricities which had built up the Princess Virginia's ideal of this celebrated young man, proclaimed emperor after the great revolution eight years ago.

"You are worthy to be an empress," Her mother's voice broke into Virginia's thoughts. She started and found herself under inspection by the grand duchess. At first she frowned; then she laughed, springing up on a quick impulse to turn earnest into jest and so perhaps escape further catechizing.

"Yes, would I not make an empress?" she echoed, stepping out from the shadow of her favorite elm into the noontide radiance of summer.

The sun poured over her hair as she stood with uplifted head and threaded it with a network of living gold, gleaming into the dark gray eyes rimmed with black lashes and turning them to jewels. Her fair skin was as flawless in the unsparing light as the petals of lilies, and her features, though a repetition of those which had made a Virginia girl famous long ago, were carved with royal perfection.

"There is no real reason why you should not make an empress, dearest," said her mother, in pride of the girl's beauty and desiring, womanlike, to promote her child's happiness. "Stranger things have happened. Only last week at Windsor the dear queen was saying what a pity poor Henri was not more. But, no matter; he is well enough. However, if—And when one comes to think of it, it's perhaps not unnatural that Leopold of Rhaetia has never been mentioned for you, although

"Yes, would I not make an empress?" there could be nothing against the marriage. What a match for any woman—a supreme one! Not a royal girl but would go on her knees to him if!"

"I wouldn't," said Virginia. "I might worship him, yet he should go on his knees to me."

"I doubt if those proud knees of his will ever bend in homage to man or woman," replied the grand duchess. "But that's a mere fantasy. I'm serious now, darling, and I very much wish you'd be."

"Please, I'd rather not," smiled Virginia uneasily. "Let us not talk of the emperor any more—and never again

FADS AND FASHIONS

One of the newest things is Scotch gingham in plain colors with a striped border.

Both gold and silver thread are much used for adorning lace, especially yokes of filet lace.

Brown as a popular color seems never to lose its popularity. It is quite as much seen on the street this season as ever before.

If a serviceable dress is wanted for wear just now, the chiffon mohairs are as good a material as any to select from. This fabric may be had from forty-four to fifty-four inches wide, and costs a dollar to a dollar and a half a yard.

Just at this moment women seem to be steering clear of vivid colors and deeper hued shades toned down with a touch of black or white are seen on dressy day-time gowns.

Pantries still hold their own in the realm of millinery, large moon-faced examples in pale Copenhagen blue proving a formidable rival to the rich browns and yellows, while violets are by no means eliminated from all the newest schemes of headgear.

Lace sets for evening gowns consist of the circular armlets, yokes and an immense edging for the tunic skirt. This edging is about twenty inches wide and usually of rich lace dotted with jewels and interwoven with tinsel. The lace is colored to match the lace or net of the garment.

Sashes are not waning in Fashion's favor by any means. Instead they are increasing, and the latest manifestation of a sash is known as the "Merry Widow" which is bordered with deep fringe. Originally this sash was intended to be draped around the hips, but as this is only becoming to exceedingly slender women, many are tying them around the waist in the conventional way, while others are draping them over the head and shoulders for evening wear.

Neighborhood Favorite

Mrs. E. D. Charles of Harbor, Me., speaking of Electric Bitters, says: "It is a neighborhood favorite here with us." It deserves to be a favorite everywhere. It gives quick relief in dyspepsia, liver complaint, kidney derangement, malnutrition, nervousness, weakness and general debility. Its action on the blood, as a thorough purifier, makes it especially useful as a spring medicine. This grand alternative tonic is sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

WHAT EVERYBODY WANTS

Everybody desires good health, which is impossible unless the kidneys are healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and cures all forms of kidney or bladder disorders. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once and prevent Bright's disease and diabetes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel that your stomach is not in good order, that the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural digestive juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by Ed. D. Heckerman.

COUGHS, COLDS

HEALTH HINTS

A good thing for burns or scalds is to pour castor oil over the wound, or the white of an egg.

Impure cosmetics will spoil the complexion. To fill up the pores with poisonous powder is criminal and even the best powder must be washed from the flesh with very warm water before retiring.

Walking is the very best kind of exercise, and will seldom tire the person who walks correctly. Take a free, firm, easy stride, swinging the limbs from the hip, bending the knee but slightly and stepping squarely on the ball of the foot. A walk of two or three miles a day will keep any woman in good health.

There is nothing known to science that will remove enlarged pores unless the skin is kept scrupulously clean. A warm soapy facial bath must be taken every night, the face then rinsed in several clear waters and a good skin food applied. A mere wiping of the face with a wet cloth is not washing it.

Face cloths and sponges are often responsible for bad complexions. They are not in themselves harmful, but they are seldom kept perfectly clean. A face cloth should be used only once or twice and should then be carefully washed and thoroughly boiled before it is used again. A soiled wash cloth causes many cases of blackheads and pimples.

NO DIFFERENCE

No distinction is made as to the kind of Piles that Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid cures.

The names Internal, External, Bleeding, Blind, Itching, Suppurating, etc., are simply names of the different stages through which every case will pass if it continues long enough.

Piles are caused by congestion or stagnation of blood in the lower bowel, and it takes an internal remedy to remove the cause.

Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally.

It is a permanent cure. Money back if it fails.

A guarantee with every package. Price $1.00 at F. W. Jordan's, Bedford, Pa., or Dr. Leonard Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.

Corn Syrup is the Correct Name

Washington, February 14.—An important question in the administration of the pure food law was settled today in a decision made public by Secretaries Wilson, Cortelyou and Straus. It bears upon the labeling of syrup. The decision follows: "We have given careful consideration to the labeling of the thick viscous syrup obtained by the incomplete hydrolysis of the starch of corn and composed essentially of dextrose, maltose and extrins. In our opinion it is lawful to label this syrup as 'corn syrup,' and if to the corn syrup there is added a small percentage of refiner's syrup the mixture, in our judgment, is not misbranded if labeled 'corn syrup with cane flavor.'"

The trouble with most cough remedies is that they constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently but promptly on the bowels and at the same time it stops the cough by soothing the throat and lung irritation. Children like it. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Care of the Eyes

Good sight is among the greatest blessings of life, and it behooves women for their own sake to take good care of their eyes. When you have nothing to do, when you are simply resting, close your eyes and let them rest also. As long as the eyes are open they are at work to a greater or less extent, and oculists will tell you that the moisture of the closed lids is good for them.

Stops earache in two minutes; toothache or pain of burn or scald in five minutes; hoarseness, one hour; muscleache, two hours; sore throat, twelve hours—Dr. Thomas Electric Oil, monarch over pain.

IS DELAY WISE?

There have been numerous rumors recently concerning the change which it is thought by some will be made in the Bedford postoffice. It is a matter that doesn't concern The Gazette particularly, but we venture the assertion that there are those about here who are beginning to realize that neither "political promises" nor "personal pledges" are more highly regarded now than they were when Bedford county was not made an independent judicial district. The nomination may be made and the election held before a change is made—if it is made even then. But sometimes there is method even back of delay. In this case the delay is keeping at least one candidate from announcing for District Attorney.

ROOSEVELT ACTING

President Roosevelt has taken up the big stick and is making strides toward giving the people of the Nation information concerning controversies that may arise over wages between the railroads and their employees. He recently held a conference at the White House with Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Charles P. Neill, Commissioner of Labor, and followed the conference with a letter to the Commerce Commission advising that the commission give to the public information with regard to the proposed "cut" in wages, with especial reference to the causes of the same. He states that he has information to the effect that the railroads regard a reduction in wages as necessary on account of the enactment of drastic laws by Congress and by some of the State Legislatures.

While he believes the corporations should be made to declare the causes that lead to a reduction, he also makes plain that, in case of a strike, he will permit no violence on the part of the strikers. He concludes his letter as follows: "Should conciliation fail to effect a settlement and arbitration be rejected, accurate information should be available to develop a properly informed public opinion. I therefore ask you to make such investigation, both of your records and by any other means at your command, as will enable you to furnish data concerning such conditions obtaining on the Louisville and Nashville and any other roads as may relate, directly or indirectly, to the real merits of the possibly impending controversy."

Spring Styles

The March number of the Woman's Home Companion is the Spring Fashion Number, and in it Grace Margaret Gould, the fashion editor, has many interesting paragraphs, among them the following:

"You will continue to be one of the fashionable materials throughout the spring and summer. So popular is it that it is now looked upon as a staple among fabrics.

"There is one item in her wardrobe that no woman ought to worry about this year—that is, her blouses, her shirt waists, as she is apt to call them. For no matter what her age or her figure, she can readily find in the new designs for blouses many models exactly suited to her individual need.

"If she wishes to add breadth to her shoulders, she can make them so that she will look broad shouldered and yet have the consciousness that she is in the height of style, for broad-shouldered effects are all the vogue, sometimes produced by plaits extending over the shoulders, and then again by a scarf-like drape so arranged that it widens the shoulder line. While if, on the other hand, she has a fondness for the long drooping shoulder, she can find many designs that will carry out this effect."

TWO MINUTE SKETCHES

Robert Fulton.

By J. A. EDGERTON.

He lived long enough to become one of the immortals.

ROBERT FULTON'S parents were so poor that the future inventor had scarcely any education, barely learning how to read and write. His father died when Robert was three years old, and at an early age the boy was apprenticed to a Philadelphia jeweler. In addition to his work in the shop, young Fulton applied himself to portrait and landscape painting and showed such talent that he was enabled to keep his widowed mother and in four years bought a farm on which he placed her. He then went to London to prosecute the study of his art as a painter. So strong a bent had he for science, however, that in his odd hours he studied mechanics and engineering. Finally attracting the attention of the Duke of Bridgewater, who was then interested in an extensive canal scheme, Fulton was induced by that gentleman to give up painting altogether and to devote himself to civil engineering and invention.

In the next few years Fulton invented an incline plane for supplanting canal locks, a mill for sawing and polishing marble, a machine for spinning flax and another for making ropes. He also wrote a book on navigating canals and another on the application of steam to navigation. At about this time he attracted the notice of Edward F. Livingston, United States minister at Paris. In response to an invitation Fulton went to that city, where he soon invented a submarine boat, which he vainly tried to have adopted by the French, British and American governments. After his failure in this attempt he returned to his dream of steam navigation and invented a small boat which successfully navigated the Seine. Livingston was so interested that he advanced money to Fulton to come to America and build a steamboat for the Hudson. The result was the Clermont, from whose first trip between New York and Albany dates the beginning of a new era in the water transportation of the world.

The Clermont marked the high tide of Fulton's success. He was forty-two years old at the time and lived only eight years longer, having been worn out by the incessant toil of his earlier life. He had lived long enough, however, to become one of the immortals.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Communication From Our Regular Correspondent

CHAMP CLARK'S SPEECH

A Reduced Majority—The Finance
Bill—Republican Factions Warring Over Candidates.

Washington, D. C., February 18.—One of the most brilliant speeches to which the House of Representatives has listened in recent years was that which Representative Champ Clark of Missouri delivered last week. There was no malice in Mr. Clark's remarks, but they fairly scintillated with wit, and the House almost shrieked with laughter, so that many times Mr. Clark was compelled to suspend. He discussed the President and said: "He cannot express his views upon any question under the sun, even upon a subject so prosaic and threadbare as the weather, without precipitating a row, his extreme adherents swearing that there never has been such a weather prophet on earth since Adam and Eve were driven from the Garden of Eden with flaming swords, and his extreme enemies vociferating that he knows no more about the weather than the ground hog."

Reduced Majority

To return to Mr. Clark's speech, however, he pointed out how the Republican majority had been reduced from 114 in the last Congress to 55 in this and declared that the next election would witness a sweeping away of the Republican majority altogether, and a return of a good working Democratic majority with a Democratic President in the White House. Mr. Clark pictures Speaker Cannon surveying his reduced majority in the House and "repeating the sad exclamation of Pyrrhus, King of Epirus, when surveying a hard won field, 'Another such victory and we are undone.'"

Aldrich's Bill

An extraordinary spectacle is being presented in the Senate where Mr. Aldrich is crowding through his financial bill. Almost no Republican is saying a word. Everything is being left to Aldrich and it is freely admitted on the Republican side that the Senator from Rhode Island is the only man who really understands the financial question. Democratic Senators are daily attacking the bill but of course with a membership of only one-third of the Senate they can accomplish nothing.

Republicans Divided

The Republicans were never more widely split asunder. The Roosevelt-Taft faction is working strenuously, of course, to secure the nomination of Mr. Taft and the continuance of the Roosevelt policies, especially those dealing with corporations. The genuine "old line" Republicans, headed by Crane of Massachusetts, Speaker Cannon and Senator Foraker have adopted a rule or ruin policy and are willing to go to any lengths to prevent the nomination of Taft and the continuance of those policies which are so objectionable to the interests which have always been the foundation and support of the Republican party. The latest proposition, and it is seriously considered and promoted by the Crane-Foraker-Cannon faction, is to steal the national convention by the election of what are known as "rotten borough" delegations from the Southern states where a handful of negroes may be bought for a box of cigars and a song and sent to the convention as a contesting delegation. Of course this movement may not succeed. That all depends on the willingness of the Republican National Committee to be party to the fraud. But whether it succeeds or not it will inevitably leave the Republican party so badly disorganized that the chances for Democratic success will be brighter than they have been for years. If Taft is nominated, there will be no fat campaign contributions from the railroads, the Harriman et al., and from the protected interests on which the Republicans have hitherto always relied for support.

Winter in a Lumber Camp

Camp Number 7, where Mr. Power and I spent our first night in the woods, was typical of all the others—a small clearing and a group of rough log-houses on the borders of a frozen stream. First the habitation of a lumberman, the building of considerable dimensions—some fifty feet square and calculated to house sixty men; then the stable, also of generous proportions; and finally a storehouse or two and a small office for the foreman and manager; also so buried and dissimulated under seven or eight feet of snow that only a door, an odd window or two, and a few superimposed logs here and there are visible.

It was dark when we arrived, the men were crowded about the great box-stove laughing and chatting, and the steaming bowls of pea-soup had just been placed on the long tables. Never shall I forget the delicious fragrance and savor of that wonderful soup. The boiled pork and bread which followed were equally welcome; and even the thin hot tea flavored with molasses, seemed all that an epicure could ask. We cavilled not at battered tin mugs for the tea, nor at fingers for the pork, but filled ourselves and were thankful with the great thankfulness that comes only of ten hours in a temperature forty degrees below.—From "The Habitant in Winter," by Birge Harrison, in the March Scribner.

Wit and Humor

BEN TILLMAN.

UNDER the old idea of Tillman as the typical fire eater he is about the last man that would be suspected of anything so genial as humor. That conception of him is now becoming somewhat modified, or possibly he is becoming mellowed himself. At any rate, a rich vein of wit has been found in the South Carolina senator, though his thrusts are somewhat rough and savage, like the man.

When Tillman was governor there was a revolt against his famous liquor dispensary law. He called out the militia, and the members of one company tendered their resignations. The governor dismissed them in a characteristic letter, closing as follows:

"You can depart to your homes. You do not deserve it, but I will pay your hotel bill and trust that I may never be bothered with any more such band-box and holiday soldiers."

In his first speech in the senate the South Carolina man paid his respects to President Cleveland in rather savage fashion. He recounted how he had come to Washington as governor to attend Cleveland's inauguration, standing out for several hours in a drizzling rain to see the first Democratic executive since the war. Then Tillman raised a laugh by vehemently exclaiming:

"God forgive me for being such a fool."

It was some time before this that Tillman had made the thrust at the president which fastened on the South Carolinian the sobriquet of "Pitchfork Ben." It was as follows:

"But if I go to the senate I promise that I will use a pitchfork in the president's fat old ribs."

At another time Senator Tillman exclaimed:

"I would rather go to hell with my followers than to heaven with the other crowd."

To a Columbia audience in his own state he said: "This is the fifth time I've tried to poke some sense into the heads of you people, but I suppose you don't want it, and I think you had better beat your drums and stampele like a lot of cowards, as you did the second time I came here."

Later at the same meeting:

"You are a set of old fossils, and you can go to the devil in your own way. I don't want your votes."

This is rather grim humor, it must be admitted. Of a somewhat gentler quality is the following, given at the time of his row with his colleague, Senator McLaurin: A young reporter was gathering statistics as to the favorite recreations and books of Washington notables. When the South Carolina man was approached he looked at the reporter over quizzically and replied:

"Every one knows my favorite recreation—having fun with McLaurin. My favorite book is 'If Christ Came to Congress.'"

The reporter thanked him and asked where Senator Depew might be found. "Why," said Tillman, "Chamney is in Europe, but," he continued, with a sly gleam in his one eye, "I can give you the information you seek. Depew's favorite recreation is playing pounce, and his favorite author is E. P. Roe."

"Can you tell me his favorite work?"

"Certainly. Senator Depew's favorite work is 'Opening a Chestnut Burr.'"

Senator Tillman dropped into the war department one day to see Secretary Taft.

"See here," exclaimed the secretary, who had just assumed spectacles—"see here what you have driven me to with your attacks on my character and motives. You have forced me to take to glasses."

"Well," responded Senator Tillman, "I hope sincerely it will enable you to see the constitution now."

The South Carolina man got dry fun out of the rate bill fight. When Aldrich accused him of abandoning his own measure when the Hepburn bill was placed in his charge, Tillman responded:

"I never deserted my baby, but the senator from Rhode Island insisted upon putting his own dress upon it. That was distasteful to me, and the bantling is sleeping peacefully. Then some one dropped another kid in my house, and I am holding it. I won't deny that I am suspicious of the paternity of the brat and of the brat itself."

During one of the daily colloquies that occurred between the two Senator Spooner said:

"The last cartoon I saw of the senator from South Carolina represented him as down in the straw and being kicked by the Democratic donkey."

"The last one I saw," said Tillman, "represented me as riding the donkey, with the Republican elephant tied to its tail."

"What's before the senate anyway, Mr. President?" demanded a senator during a full one day.

"I am before the senate," Senator Tillman declared without a smile.

HECKERMAN LETTER

Among the Bedford County Folks in
"Sunny Tennessee."Mountain City, Tenn.,
February 18, 1908.

This town, called a city, is at the terminus of the Virginia and Southwestern Railroad, some seventy miles from Bristol. They never had license up here but that does not go for I saw a drunken man today. The town is situated in a beautiful valley surrounded, like Bedford, with hills and they have a Republican hill much like our Democratic hill at home. This is the strongest Republican county in the state; there are less than three hundred Democratic voters in the whole county, yet the state always goes Democratic. The town boasts of two banks, both private institutions; the one is owned in fee simple by Mr. Wright, who is the wealthiest man in the county. He owns, besides the bank, a large department store in the town, a large wholesale grocery store at a town two miles distant, and much real estate. He is a man of about thirty-five, an elegant, whole-souled fellow, such as we have so many in the south and southwest.

The principal hotel of the four is the Mountain City Inn, where they serve meals, and mighty good ones, somewhat different from the most hotels. Here they put the food on big plates at one end of the table, where a very handsome young lady stands and she asks each one if they will have chicken, ham, potatoes, rice, etc. When she gets the answer she proceeds to load a big plate and have it passed along to where it belongs. The only edibles that are on the table, save at the end where the stands, are preserves (good ones) and butter. There is no choice of the chicken, you take what she gives you and all are well satisfied. I asked her for the gizzard and she skipped out to the kitchen and brought me the coveted bite. I do not know her first name, but she is one of the best musicians I ever heard. She sits at the piano and her fingers glide over the keys, touching each one as she will.

The hills in this county all abound with the best of iron ore, which is mostly washed and taken to the Bristol furnaces. This is also a great produce country, many people raise from one to two hundred turkeys each year. They feed them for a few weeks when young and after that they are turned loose to hunt their own feed, living mostly on grasshoppers, I am told. The money gotten from the sales of these turkeys, chicks, etc., clothes and feeds the family for the year.

They have a new hotel at Elizabethtown that is fifty years ahead of the town. It was erected by a stock company and is first-class in every respect, and from the way my friend, S. W. Dungan, insisted on my staying there over night I should not be surprised if he had a block of stock as big as a half-bushel. This Mr. Dungan is the head and shoulders of the Standard Grocery Company that last year sold two hundred cases of Fort Bedford Peanuts and a big lot of Lucky Kisses. He complains that the kisses are not as sweet as those he gets from his Nashville girl (that's because they are not stolen).

Dr. Pres. Metzger and family are quite well, also the Biddles, Claars, Prosser, Corbins, Russells, Nicodemuses, Fetters, Lings, Palmers and Slonakers. The only sick Bedford county person in this colony is Theo. Lingenfeiter, formerly of Pattonville; he has been ailing for some time but is gaining fast now. He said that my visit to him would do him good. I tell you it takes a whole lot of time to get around among all the Bedford county people who live within a radius of eleven or twelve miles. The Russell Hotel is my headquarters while in that county. There I see The Gazette and get the best of everything, prepared by a Bedford lady. Oh! those escaped potatoes, and oysters, and dat fried fowl makes my mouth water even at a distance of sixty or seventy miles.

While the weather has been very changeable since I last wrote you yet at no time has the mercury been below 28 degrees. We have had some little skiffs of snow but none to lay or even cover the smooth places on the road, much less the rough ones. I have seen the farmers plowing almost every day, in one field on last Friday I saw six plows going. The field was a very large one and I don't suppose that they could get over six rounds plowed in one day. I have read of your deep snows and blustery days at home; we have had none of it down this way. Dr. Metzger told me his mother had written how extremely cold it was at home and that he had asked her to come south to Johnson City and note the difference in many things. His son is still in training as an athlete and hopes, before many moons have waned, to outclass his Uncle Sol.

At Greenville, Tenn., there are two medicine companies that I believe put up and sell as many patent medicines as is done in any large city. There is no time that I have ever been there but that I have seen big piles of boxes filled with various cure-alls for many different cities and towns in almost all the states of the Union. If the Southern Railroad would enlarge its waiting rooms here and compel its pompous agent, a Mr. Bradley, to keep fire in the waiting rooms and answer in a courteous manner questions as to trains, etc., it would be a good thing, for without exception he is the sourest agent that I have met in a long time. Probably the law, as lately laid down by the railroad commission at Nashville, about treating passengers civilly may do him good. Let us hope so. Yours truly,

M. P. Heckerman.

LETTER TO G. W. DERRICK Bedford, Pa.

Dear Sir: Paint goes by gallons. There are useful and useless gallons. Useful paint is lead-zinc-and-oil with dryer and color; useless paint is whitening, china-clay, ground stone, barytes, benzine, or water.

This stuff is put-in, because it is cheap, to stuff-out the paint, to make more gallons to sell; of course, the buyer doesn't suspect, or he wouldn't buy it.

It costs as much to brush-on this useless stuff as lead-zinc-and-oil; but it looks like that and feels like that in the brush; the painter doesn't suspect it. Besides, if the owner is willing, why should the painter object to painting two gallons for one? He is paid by the day; more gallons, more days, more money.

Average paint at full price is about one-third this useless stuff; and average paint at $1.25 or $1.50 or $1.75 a gallon is two-thirds trash. Fool paint is the proper name for all but pure paint; it is made to fool people with. Knave paint is another good name; it is made, of course, by knaves. Sick paint is a name for an honest weak paint. They are all weak and all extravagant; too many gallons to buy and too many gallons to brush-on. Devoe is the standard.

Yours truly
F. W. DEVOE & CO
P. S.—Metzger Hardware and House Furnishing Co. sells our paint.

Osterburg

February 18—Samuel Ake has opened a shoe repair shop in the front room of the Golden Eagle Hall, which will be welcome news to the whole community.

Squire Mason, accompanied by his daughter Alma, left for Pittsburg on Saturday. He expects to buy a third carload of hogs while there.

Charles Corle, formerly of this place but now of Windber, was in Osterburg last Friday.

The second ice flood of the season left quietly last Saturday, doing very little damage to farmers but knocked the "sticks" out from under the railroad bridge here, rendering it impassable for trains. We understand that the props that hold up the bridge near Chalybeateville were also torn out so that it was impossible to run the Saturday evening train and the people from this end who went to the county seat had the pleasure of getting home the best way they could. Some watched their chance and walked Saturday night, facing a fierce storm; some walked on Sunday, others were met with conveyances by home folks, while others hired carriages at Bedford to convey them home.

It is a shame that the railroad company can't afford to put in bridges that do not have to be propped up with sticks so that every little freshet that comes along, summer or winter, tears them out and thus greatly inconveniences the public.

The people here are anxious to see the railroad company place a crew at Imbler and give us two trains daily, or better still to see the few miles of road completed through to Altoona. The R. F. D. carrier handled 3,180 pieces of mail last month which exceeds the requirement of the P. O. Department.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a "measure social" and festival in the Band Hall next Saturday evening.

Several sledding parties that were booked for Thursday night were spoiled by the rain, which after all did not amount to much.

This, no doubt, will be his last visit to the rural districts but let us hope that his successor may be a man of such ability that some much-needed improvements may be made. Prof. Wright has done a great work but every day brings its duty and the man who will be elected to that important position will have a work to do that none of his predecessors have been called upon to perform.

RECIPES

Tomato Soup—One can of tomatoes, put through a sieve, have ready one quart of hot milk; return the tomatoes to the fire, add a pinch of soda the size of a pea. When it ceases to foam add salt and pepper to taste, then the hot milk, stirring constantly. When scalding hot, but not boiling, add three square crackers rolled to a dust and a small lump of butter. Stir until butter is melted and serve immediately.

Apples Baked With Sauce—Peel and core 12 apples and set them in a baking dish and fill the holes with raisins and sugar. Make a sauce by melting over the stove one cup of sugar. Stir constantly till a rich brown color. Add three cups hot water, boil till melted, thicken with two tablespoonfuls flour wet with a little cold water. Add a piece of butter and cinnamon or any spice. Pour the sauce over the apples and bake till tender.

Molasses Cake—One cup of molasses, one-half cup of sour milk, one large tablespoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one tablespoonful of water, one-half teaspoonful ginger, scant one-half teaspoonful of salt, two cups of flour; bake in two layers; put together with whipped cream or chocolate fillings.

Imperial Cake—Beat one pound of butter and one pound of sugar to a cream, then beat in the yolks of ten eggs, add the whites of eggs beaten to a stiff froth, stirring them in lightly.

Mix in one and a quarter pounds of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one gill of cream, three ounces of blanched and chopped almonds and a quarter of a pound of sliced preserved cherries.

Pour into a buttered and papered shallow tin and bake for one hour and a quarter in a moderately hot oven.

The Jumping Off Place

"Consumption had me in its grasp; and I had almost reached the jumping off place when I was advised to try Dr. King's New Discovery; and I want to say right now, it saved my life. Improvement began with the first bottle, and after taking one dozen bottles I was a well and happy man again," says George Moore of Grimsland, N. C. Chocolate Popcorn

Have a large earthen dish full of freshly popped corn which has been freed from all hard kernels. Now take one cup of granulated sugar, one-half cup of milk, two tablespoonfuls of grated chocolate, butter size of a walnut, and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Boil until it will harden in ice water. Pour this over the corn while hot, stirring the corn with a large spoon until all is thoroughly covered with the chocolate. Let stand to cool. This is delicious.

They are short for walking. For evening they are quite long. And lengthy are they for all formal occasions.

But for walking, shopping and the like they are short.

These walking skirts do not just clear the ground, but are some inches off it.

As for evening dresses, except for dancing, they drag all around and a bit more in the back.

The Princess Virginia (Concluded from third page.)

after this, mother. You know now. That's all that's necessary, and—"But it's not all that's necessary. You have put the idea into my head, and it's not an unpleasant idea. Besides, it has evidently been in your head for a long time, and I should like to see you happy—see you in a position such as you're entitled to grace. You are a very beautiful girl (there's no disguising that from you, as you know you are the image of your grandmother, who was a celebrated beauty), and the best blood in Europe runs in your veins. You are royal, and yet—and yet our circumstances are such that—in fact, for the present we're somewhat handicapped."

"We're beggars," said Virginia, laughing, but it was not a happy laugh.

"Cophetua married the beggar maid," the grand duchess reminded her, with elaborate playfulness. "And, you know, all sorts of things have happened in history—much stranger than any one would dare put in fiction if writing of royalties. My dear husband was second cousin once removed to the German emperor, though he was treated—But we mustn't speak of that. The subject always upsets me. What I was leading up to is this—though there may be other girls who from a worldly point of view are more desirable, still you're strictly within the pale from which Leopold is entitled to choose his wife, and if—"

"Dear little mother, there's no such 'if'! And, as for me, I wasn't thinking of a 'worldly point of view'! The emperor of Rhætia barely knows that I exist. And even if by some miracle he should suddenly discover that little Princess Virginia Mary Victoria Alexandra Hildegrade of Baumenburg-Drippe was the one suitable wife for him on earth I wouldn't have him want me because I was 'suitable,' but—because I was irresistible. I'd want his love—all his love—or I would say, 'No; you must look somewhere else for your empress.'"

"But that's nonsense, darling. Royal people seldom or never have the chance to fall in love," said the grand duchess.

"I'm tired of being royal," snapped the princess. "Being royal does nothing but spoil all one's fun and oblige one to do stupid, boring things which one hates."

"Nevertheless noblesse does oblige," went on the Dresden china prophetess of conventionality. "When alliances are arranged for women of our position, we must content ourselves with the hope that love may come after marriage, or, if not, we must go on doing our duty in that state of life to which heaven has graciously called us."

"Bother duty!" broke out Virginia. "Thank goodness, in these days not all the king's horses and all the king's men can make even a princess marry against her will. I hate that everlasting cant about 'duty in marriage.' When people love each other they're kind and good and sweet and true because it's a joy, not because it's a duty. And that's the only sort of loyalty worth having between men and women, according to me. I wouldn't accept anything else from a man, and I should despise him if he were less or more exacting."

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

If there is a damp cupboard in the house a box filled with lime should be placed in it. This will make it perfectly dry.

Some housekeepers when preparing a fowl to roast rub it inside and out with sugar, stuff it as usual and when done the meat is said to be much sweeter and juicier than if prepared in the old way.

When ivory handles have turned yellow rub them with turpentine and it will very shortly restore their color.

Whipped cream served on top of a freshly made squash pie adds much to its appearance and flavor.

A piece of pumice stone is the very best thing to scrape and scour iron kettles, or any utensil that will not be injured by scratching.

Brooms dipped for a few minutes in boiling suds once a week will last much longer than they otherwise would. They should immediately afterward be plunged into cold water to stiffen the straw.

To mend the sides of an iron utensil use putty. Place ashes and salt over the putty, which will thus be effectually hardened in a few days.

Add a half cup of milk to mush and it will brown much nicer when fried.

If the sink gets greasy a little paraffine well rubbed in will make it beautifully clean. Zinc pails and tins, if cleaned with paraffine, will look as good as new.

If suet or lard is kept in tin it will keep much fresher than if in the earthenware jars.

If the water in which windows are washed is blue they will retain their brilliancy longer and polish easier.

Soak ink stains in sour milk, and should a stain remain rinse in a weak solution of chloride of lime.

A good way to clean out a stove is to put potato parings on a bed of red hot coals. It cleans out the pipe, takes the soot off the lids, beside getting rid of refuse.

How to Maintain the Cow in Profit.

With a good cow selected there will necessarily follow the question, how to maintain her in good condition for profit? It must be apparent to every thinking person that good qualities, even the highest perfection, will not insure an abundant and rich supply of milk unless proper care is taken to furnish the cow with the kind of food best calculated for the required purpose. By adding a little to the regular feed morning and evening it will increase her milk production, make it much sweeter and richer, hence will greatly increase the butter yield. Less than one cent's worth of the food a day will do it, and it does not require months of feeding before you get this increase, but only a few days. One week's feeding in many cases has doubled the quantity of milk. It invigorates and strengthens the digestive organs, and compels the largest possible assimilation of nutriment, and the result of this is, more milk, richer milk and a healthier cow on the same amount of feed.

WASHINGTON CITY--THE MAGNET OF THE PEOPLE.

The eyes of eighty million American people are now on Washington, the Capital of the Nation.

The wheels of the National Government are now in full motion. Congress is in session and the busy whirl of the legislative mill is intensely interesting. Many hours may be spent in the Senate or House gallery watching the legislators at work.

The Capitol itself, aside from its importance as the home of Congress and of the United States Supreme Court, is an imposing building. Seven hundred and fifty-one feet long by three hundred and fifty feet wide, its massive proportions are visible from almost every section of Washington. The great dome in the center surmounted by the statue of Freedom, towering three hundred feet in the air, looks out over superbly-kept gardens and hundreds of handsome buildings in which are housed the many departments of the Government.

The other workshops of the Nation are also well worthy of a visit. The White House, the home and office of the President; the State, War, and Navy Building, with its museums and models; the Treasury Building, with its huge vaults; the Bureau of Engraving and Printing where the postage stamps are made and bank notes are printed; the Government Printing Office, the Patent Office, and the Congressional Library; the National Museum, the Smithsonian Institute, the great Monument, the new Union Station are all attractive features of the Capital City.

Fine hotels, magnificent private residences, erected by those who are making Washington their home, not only during the official season but the whole year round; handsome public buildings, ornamented circles and superb statues make Washington one of the most beautiful cities in the country, and well worthy of comparison with the other capitals of the world.

The service of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Washington serves a wide territory. Its trains afford a direct means of reaching the National Capital, and tickets at reasonable rates are on sale at all ticket offices.

Today's Suggestion by Ellen Stan.

WAIST THAT WILL COMBINE AS A COSTUME.

At least one dressy waist should be included in every girl's wardrobe. In the majority of cases silk will be the most suitable material to use for this purpose, and if goods like the skirt are applied as a trimming it will have the appearance of an entire gown, which is always more dressy than a separate skirt and waist. It is not at all necessary that the waist such as described should be elaborate and difficult to make in order to be effective.

Illustrative of an exceedingly simple waist is the one shown. The pattern for the guimpe is perfectly plain, and the waist may be finished in a variety of ways. The original waist from which this was copied was intended to be worn with a dark brown broadcloth skirt, finished at the bottom with fold trimming. The waist was of lousine silk that matched in color the broadcloth. Bands of the broadcloth were used to trim the waist, and a dark coffee colored net was employed as a finish. The broad collar may be either of all over lace or of cloth. If of the latter, it should be ornamented with hand embroidery or applique. Othershades and colors would be equally effective if carried out in the way described.

Too much stress cannot be placed upon the importance of careful cutting, basting and fitting and no detail of construction is too trivial to receive its due share of attention if the garment is to be satisfactory when finished. Pressing is also important and is done carefully or the material will have a shiny appearance. To prevent this the board or table on which the work is done must be well padded. The garment is laid with the right side down and a damp cloth placed on the wrong side.

The irons used for this purpose must be very hot, but do not allow them to scorch the goods.

The pattern for this jumper waist, which closes at the back, is cut in six sizes—from 32 to 42 inches bust measure. For a 36 inch bust it requires 3 yards of material 20 inches wide or 2 yards 36 inches wide. The guimpe needs 2 1/2 yards 20 inches wide or 1 1/2 yards 36 inches wide.

Any reader of this paper who desires to secure this pattern may do so by sending 10 cents to this office. Give the number, 3802, and write the full name and address plainly. The pattern will reach you by mail within a few days of the receipt of the order.

WITH EVANS' FLEET

Interesting Incidents of South American Trip Told By

PRIVATE WM. O. BRUNER

Royal Welcome at Rio Janeiro—Initiated Into the Mysteries of the Deep by Neptunus Rex.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, S. A., January 19, 1908.

Editor Bedford Gazette:

A short letter to my many friends from the U. S. Atlantic Fleet making her cruise around the world. The last letter I wrote was from Trinidad, British West Indies, and I promised to write from this port. On our way here we were all very sad as a sailor off the Alabama was buried at sea. It was a very sad affair; all the ships formed a complete circle, the Alabama being in the centre of all. We saw the funeral procession marching aft; he was lashed in his hammock and an American flag wrapped around him, and a heavy weight placed at each end of the hammock so it would not go ashore with the tide. The band played a funeral dirge, the bugle sounded, and as he was lowered tears came to our eyes as though he was our closest friend.

The fleet got back into position and two nights later all aboard this ship were awakened by the cry "man overboard;" the next instant a three-pound gun was fired to warn the fleet, all ships then reversed the propellers and came to a stop. By that time all the searchlights were playing on the water, and the sea was very light; the life-boats were lowered and with twelve men in each were soon out from the ship riding the waves. Sometimes we could see the life-boats and again they were gone behind a large swell. Soon our boat came back with nothing to indicate that a man was overboard, but the other boat soon arrived, and lying on the bottom was a man nearly dead, they pulled him onto the quarter deck and worked with him and soon had him in the Sick Bay. He was an ordinary seaman and today is well and happy.

Now will say something about this port. We arrived here Sunday, January 12, at 4:45 p. m., and received quite a royal welcome. Excursion boats came out to the entrance of the harbor to meet us and kept cheering. This is one of the best fortified ports in the world—every way you look you see a fort. In the evening all the Brazilian ships and the harbor were trimmed with electric lights. Liberty began on Monday, from 10 a. m. until 7:30 p. m. I went ashore and visited the great Botanical Gardens, which I studied about in school; there you can see peacocks, swans, gold fish, and 900 different kinds of palms. Also visited the $5,000,000 theatre. The people are very kind in trying to explain their money and language to you. Here there are street cars pulled by mules; also automobiles which you can hire for 5,000 reis, that is about $1.75 in our money. I got $3 changed in their money and got ten thousand reis. I took in the bull-fight given in honor of the fleet and it was very interesting.

The main avenue is much prettier than Fifth avenue, New York; the name is Avenue Central, meaning Central avenue. The arc lights are on a pole in the centre of the street, three lights to a pole. It gets dark here about 9 p. m. and day breaks at 3:30 to 4 a. m. The temperature is always between 58 to 85 degrees, very little breeze is found along the beach. Post cards cost 1000 reis, or 30c a dozen. The Brazilian green bug, which you buy in the States for a couple dollars, are sold here for fifty cents per dozen. This is the greatest coffee-producing country in the world and when ashore we can get good, real coffee for 1 1/2c a cup or, in their money, 100 reis. When I got fifty cents changed I really thought I would need a dishpan to carry the spickity cash.

Tuesday night Marines from all ships go ashore to parade, as the Governor is to be inaugurated; the

CATARRH YIELDS

To Healing Air of Hyomei—Sold Under Guarantee by F. W. Jordan.

Catarrh is the most prevalent disease known to humanity. Probably ninety per cent. of the people in this country suffer at one time or another with this common disease.

It is a germ disease and hence can be cured only by some method that will reach and destroy the germs. This is best found in Hyomei, which may be called the direct method of treating catarrh, as its medication, taken in with the air you breathe, goes directly to every air cell in the nose, throat and lungs; kills all catarrhal germs; heals the irritated mucous membrane and vitalizes the tissues so as to render catarrh no longer possible.

F. W. Jordan gives his absolute guarantee to refund the price to any catarrh sufferer that Hyomei fails to benefit.
Feb. 14-21.

President of Brazil will arrive here Monday night. When we crossed the equator all aboard received their initiation from Neptunus Rex, King of the Seas. The platform was built out on the forecable and a large canvas tank at one end took an important part in the program. On the platform were two boards with a barrel at the end and when you sat on it some one would pull a rope and you would go backwards into the tank of salt water. At 8 a. m. the parade started toward the aft end of the ship, had their pictures taken, were received by the skipper, Capt. G. A. Merriam, and then marched for the platform. With the party were seven policemen, with clubs made of cloth, who went through the ship hunting for the crew, better known to them as landlubbers. They caught me on the aft bridge and took me down to court, where they took off my shoes and socks, and smeared grease and lamp black on them. Then the doctor made me hold some kind of an ugly pill, made of dough and other things, in my mouth, marched me out on the end of the plank and put me on the barrel, blackened by face with lamp black and grease and slid me off into the water. In the water were a lot of men to duck you under a few times, then you climb a ladder up to the bridge, and there a man checks you off as being initiated into the mysteries of the deep, and gives you a certificate to show that you have crossed the equator. There was not a man aboard who didn't receive the same. The officers were fined so many bottles of beer, to be given to the initiating committee.

Thursday we coaled ship, taking on 1,800 tons. Our next stop will be at Puntas Aires, lay there five days to coal, then start for Callao, Peru, where we lay ten days, then run into Magdalena Bay for one month's target practice. We are supposed to arrive in the bay March 14 and Frisco on April 19. Well, I must close, hoping to hear from the U. S. soon. I remain, Sincerely,
Private William O. Bruner,
U. S. S. Missouri.

P. S.—Mail addressed to me, care of Postmaster, San Francisco, Cal., will be forwarded.

PICTURE TALK

Today (Friday) and tomorrow (Saturday) we are making one photo free of the Grandparents of the County. This is our opening offer and will not appear again.

About the Little Folks.

We like to make pictures of children and try to make the time at the studio very pleasant and interesting for them. Better pictures are obtained when a child does not know, so please do not say anything about having pictures taken when you bring them to the studio.

You can learn of our Baby Day, also of our very special offer for pictures of the little ones, by calling at the studio.

Our special rate for students continues until March 1st. Everything new and up-to-date.

all the ceremony that was necessary. With the progress of time the fathers learned that a daughter had a market value and thus it came about that even the savages progressed (?) to the point of selling their daughters for a specified number of skins, or horses, or whatever they most desired. Even then the woman had no voice in the matter. Now, after years of civilization (?) we have advanced (?) so far beyond this point of savagery that instead of selling the woman we buy the man. So far in the history of civilization I believe that the United States has discovered more valuable men, and purchased them, than any other country.

I do not think any man ever lived who would be foolish enough to pay millions for the most beautiful woman, but I do not want any of my readers to imagine that a man is really of any more intrinsic value than a woman, nor are men, as a rule, any more likely to be valuable because of their beauty—the value all inheres in the name, the title. If a man's name is Smith, or Manuel Dorothea Narbard Ber D'Al de Lunille, Duke de Lenschau, of Today and Hereafter,—the difference in value is not in the man but the name. If you get more for your money you need not mind paying more for it. If you read the marriage notices you will observe that a man can afford to shout a lot for $5,000,000, and a girl can, I suppose, afford to put up the $5,000,000 if she is playing to d'Uzes (Duces). It's a high play all around, and no one cares which one happens to hold the losing hand; but one thing is certain, and that is that in the marriage of Miss Shonts to the Duke de Chaunines $5,000,000 is lost to the currency in the United States.

Rain Coats

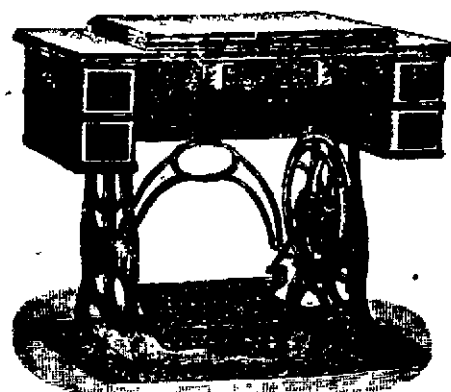

are a great convenience as, well as a great comfort. No woman can well get along without one. They are a great protection from cold as well as rain and are in demand twelve months in the year. We have some extra good values on hand in Olive, Oxford, and Gray shades, made from best rain-proof cloth in the most desirable styles at prices ranging from $5 to $15.

Horse Blankets and Robes

We have more than we want at this time of the year. If you need anything in the line above, you can buy at greatly reduced prices during the next two weeks. Come soon, while the assortment is good. Heavy wool Horse Blankets, good size, for this sale—only $1.25. Lap Robes at $1.50 and up. Reduced from $2.

Sewing Machines

Yes we sell them—and lots of them. The best recommendation we can give is that we have sold guaranteed Sewing Machines for the last 12 years and have not been called on to replace a part or get a single repair. That speaks well for the Vindex and Eldredge Machines when you take into consideration that we have placed over a hundred of these machines in Bedford county. Remember if you pay $40 or $50 for a machine on the installment plan, you get no better than the ones we sell. Vindex—$14.98. Eldredge—$23.

Bad News!

Some letters contain bad news. Some suggest bad news by their appearance—news that the writer has become careless in her habits. Do not let your letters create this impression,—not while EATON'S BERKSHIRE LAID is selling at 30c a box. Did you know that it cost so little to be in good taste in the matter of writing letters?
